

Editor's Choice Contest

If we gave you $100 to save a little energy, how would you spend it?

This month's prize is a $100 Living with Energy in Iowa Energy-Saving Gift Card that you can use to purchase energy-smart products at your favorite store. The energy-saving choices you make today should continue to pay dividends for many years to come.

Tired of lights being left on in the basement or garage? Install a motion-sensor switch. Need to plug air leaks around windows? Buy a couple of tubes of caulk and an auto-release caulking gun. Plagued by energy vampires? Get a smart power strip that automatically turns off energy wasters for you.

Visit our Web site, and win!

To register, go online to the Editor's Choice Contest at the Living with Energy in Iowa Web site (www.livingwithenergyiniowa.com) and fill out the entry form by March 31, 2010. We'll pick the winner's name at random from all the entries received and contact him or her for the name of the local retailer(s) where the $100 will be spent. We'll also publish the winner's name in an upcoming issue of the magazine.

Please note that the purpose of this contest is to encourage you to visit our newly revised Web site and that we cannot accept entries by any other means. In addition, you can enter the contest only once, there is no obligation associated with entering this contest and we do not share contestants' names or entry information with anyone.

The winners of the energy-saving work lights in the January issue were Gary Obbink, a member of Osceola Electric Cooperative, Inc., and Alan Lemker, a member of Raccoon Valley Electric Cooperative.
